

MR. TRUMBULL IS DEAD

Second Member of Men's Bible Class Dies Within a Year.

PASSES AWAY IN DIXIE HOSPITAL

Class to Have Charge of the Funeral Arrangements—Services to Be Held in the Memorial Baptist Church by Rev. T. Ryland Sanford.

Mr. Henry Trumbull, 69 years old, died in the Dixie hospital at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He had been ill two weeks with a complication of diseases. Mr. Trumbull had been a merchant in Elizabeth City county for more than fifteen years. He came here from New York. So far as is known he had no immediate relatives.

Mr. Trumbull was a member of the Men's Bible Class of the Memorial Baptist church, which organization will have charge of the funeral services. Funeral services will be conducted from the church at 4 o'clock this afternoon by Rev. T. Ryland Sanford and the members of the Bible class will turn out in a body. The interment will be made in Oakland cemetery.

Messrs. W. P. Brushwood, H. P. Barney, Leonard Bradley, J. H. Copeland and John Fraser, members of the Bible class, will act as the pallbearers.

This makes the second death in the ranks of the Bible class within the last twelve months.

Announcement!

Secretary Lynch, of the Hampton Y. M. C. A., has arranged to have night Educational Classes in the Association rooms during this fall and winter. Mr. J. H. Bonneville, for five years principal of Syms-Eaton Academy, of this place; now principal of Phoebus School, will conduct the work. Instruction will be given in elementary and advanced mathematics; English, including grammar, composition, punctuation and spelling; history and literature.

The classes will be formed in such a manner as to meet the individual needs of the members, and the sole aim will be to give instruction which will be of practical value. Classes will be organized in additional subjects whenever the demand justifies it. This is the chance for men who feel need of further instruction; men who need freshening up on certain subjects; boys in school who are backward on particular subjects and need assistance on them.

The classes are at night so that persons can attend without interfering with their work.

For full particulars address, at once, R. WALTER LYNCH, Sec'y Y. M. C. A., or J. H. BONNEVILLE, conductor of night school. They will see you privately, find what you want and need, and see that you are enrolled in proper classes.

WHO MADE FIRST STEAMBOAT?

Frenchmen Claim the Honor and Say Fulton Was Only a Follower.

PALESTINE, Sept. 29.—Does the honor of inventing the first steamboat belong to an American or a Frenchman?

That is a question which is likely to work up into a great controversy, for the French Maritime league is going to celebrate next year the 100th anniversary of the application of steam propulsion to water craft. And the league claims that the real inventor of the steamboat was not Fulton, the great American engineer, but a Frenchman named Jouffroy d'Abbois.

Scotchmen also claim that Watt and that the Duke of Bridgewater were the inventors, and that the Charlotte Dundas, which plied on the Forth and Clyde Canal in 1796, was the first steamboat.

The league credits Fulton with introducing the first practical steam vessel on the Hudson river in 1807, and so will erect a statue to him. But this statue will be one of a group of which the central figure will be of d'Abbois. The statues will be on the banks of the Seine, as it was on that river that Fulton exhibited his first model in 1797.

The league purposes to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the appearance of the Hudson river boat by an international exhibition to be held here of steam engines and all appliances connected with steam.

PAINTED HER SLEEVES.

And After This The New Gown Was A Great Success.

This home dressmaker is a very ingenious person, but when she found that she did not have enough silk by a yard to finish her gown she felt that her resourcefulness would be of no use in such an emergency, for she had bought every inch of goods there was in the store. She went from shop to shop with a sample in her hand, but though there were gray silks aplenty, none had the peculiar pink shade in it which was so conspicuous in hers when it was placed by one which lacked it.

After the woman had spent three days on this hopeless quest—after she had sent to Philadelphia and New York to see if she could match the silk—at last she gave up in despair and made up her mind that she would have to go sleeveless the remainder of her days.

Then a thought struck her. She is an artist of no mean ability as well as a dressmaker of real merit, and so after some cogitations, she took her water color paints and experimented.

Later she went downtown and bought a yard of the gray silk which came nearest hers, and then, with her clever little brush and the proper shade of pink paint, she painted that silk until it was exactly the shade of the remainder of the gown. She made her sleeves after this, and not a soul who has admired the frock has the faintest idea that it has been doctored to make it look the same that all over.

her namesake.

When Mrs. Lombard heard that the baby of her former cook had been named for her she bought a suitable rattle with many jingling bells and went to see her namesake.

"Why, Bridget," she said to the late Miss Leahy, now Mrs. O'Sullivan, "I thought you said the baby was named for me. My name is Hannah, and you are calling the baby Celestine."

"Celestine? L. ma'am," said Mrs. O'Sullivan hastily. "The 'L' is for Lombard, and Celestine is just a kind of a name to describe you, ma'am. There ain't anny Hannah to your looks, Mrs. Lombard; anny wan would tell you that."—Youth's Companion.

A Remarkable Fortress.

In the northern part of Madagascar is the most remarkable natural fortress in the world. It is occupied by a wild tribe who call themselves the people of the rocks. The fortress is a lofty and precipitous rock of enormous size, 1,000 feet high and eight square miles in area. Its sides are so steep that it cannot be climbed without artificial means. Within it is hollow, and the only entrance is by a subterranean passage.

Origin of the Sidesaddle.

The use of the sidesaddle for women riders is traced to the time of Anne of Bohemia, eldest daughter of the emperor of Germany, who married Richard II. of England. Previous to this date all English women bestrode their horses man fashion, but on account of a deformity this German bride was forced to use a sidesaddle, and the custom became general.

A Plea For Cannibalism.

Bronson Alcott, the Concord philosopher, once made a strong and almost unanswerable plea for cannibalism. "I, you are going to eat meat at all," argued the Yankee Plato, "why not eat the best?"

The Way to Get a Chance.

It may not be to the credit of mankind, but in this world no man is "given" a chance. If he wants a chance he has to throw it down and sit on it neck.—Columbia State.

Beware of looking at sin, for at each view it is apt to become better looking. —Success Magazine.

Torture by Savages.

"Speaking of the torture to which some of the savage tribes in the Philippines subject their captives, reminds me of the intense suffering I endured for three months from inflammation of the Kidneys," says W. M. Sherman, of Chicago, Me. "Nothing helped me until I tried Electric Bitters, three bottles of which completely cured me." Cures Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, blood disorders and Malaria; and restores the weak and nervous to robust health. Guaranteed by W. Blair Langhorne, druggist. Price 50c.

THE HAN BODY.

Composition of House in Which Man's Abides.

The foundation of the human body is composed of bones, covered with 522 voluntary muscles. The smaller blood vessels are so numerous as to be beyond telling, but we have no fewer than 1,000 arteries through which blood is always flowing under government of the heart.

The blood is used of two constituents, termed physiologists red and white corpuscles, covering some thousands of millions.

Our house something like 600 tiny telegraphs, called nerves, connected with brain and spinal cord, and these wires are always throbbing with messages which they telegraph to the office—the brain. Besides these are the sympathetic wires, or numbered by thousands, which lie former.

The front of face, the skin, has been measured found, if spread out, to cover square feet.

The ventilator by which we get our fresh built of such fine porous stuff if spread out, it would be four over a stretch of land big enough to contain a fifteen roomed house, refer to the lungs which have bits of millions of air cells.

To every inch of the palm of the hand are pores, while the number of strands in the skin generally is 20. Their function is to deposit upon the skin; hence the need of a daily tub to wash this stuff, otherwise it clogs the sweat gland prevents their proper work.

STROKE.

Properly Said, It Should Be Called Apoplexy.

What is a stroke, the effect of great, should be "heat apoplexy." Apoplexy leads the multitude to death from it is caused by being struck down by one of a special malvolency of the rays. This is not so, for there are equal frequency of strokes and barracks and tents at night as well as day and, whether or shade, are generally those health is debilitated by dissipation and overfatigue, and the evil from all parts of the world, at exposure to intense sun rays to be feared in dry countries, in countries where the temperature much lower, but the atmosphere moist, and perspiration is easily retarded.

People suffer from a temperature of 87° F. at Brussels than at 122° deg at Cairo, owing to the moist air first and the extreme dryness of the air in the latter city.

The inhabitants of the eastern coasts of the United States, with amazement of temperatures from 118 to 128 degrees Fahrenheit in the dry regions of the South Colorado without heat that the ordinary avocations and factory are pursued with convenience. This is due to the effect of rapid evaporation of the surface of the body, and the sun's malignancy is unknown in all.

Fables in England.

She had the family crest and was made for her letter paper.

"You'd pay $5 a year to use this crest stationary if you were English the stationer. There is a tax of $5 a year on all who crest."

"So few are entitled to a crest, those said, 'I shouldn't think such would bring in the English get much money.' The tax in $250,000 a year." replied them. "There are 50,000 English crests on their stationery."

Large Knot.

A good friend of the "marriage knot," knew of us realize that the knot is anything more than a figure 8. Among the Babylonians knot was part of the marriage, says Home Chat. The priest thread from the garment of the bride and another from that of the groom and tied them into a knot he gave to the bride, thus symbolizing the binding nature of the union now existed between herself and husband.

and Deaths.

Pennsylvania "Tour of Scotland" tells the death of a highlander, the corpse stretched on a board and covered with a coarse linen wrapper, the face a wooden platter on top of the deceased containing quantity of salt and earth, and unmixed—the earth an emblem of corruptible body, the salt an emblem of the immortal spirit.
